Dreadful Rehearsal of the Tragedy by the Injured Men.

STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.

Continued Investigation by the Fire Marshal-Another Victim.

fire Marshal Sheldon continued his investigation as to the cause of the Barclay street fire yesterday by ex-ospital. Their statements are as follows:coursed he was on the third loft, working at the ame table as were Adams and Schoenwald; he was once he heard a rumbling noise; everything grew move, something seeming to keep him prostrate; but when he smelled fresh air; finally he tound himself on the peaked roof of the next house, which was covered with bricks and rubbish, and the side wall of No. 63 Barcias street ed to be all down as far as the roof; Adams Shoenwald got out at the same time he did; he eard Shoenwald cry out while he was in the ruins and plice to him; heard to explosion; saw no fash of Hauser is badly burned on arms, neck and back; ork; it was the flue from the botler, and was placed ittle back of the head of the stairs; in winter, when he stove was up, the fue did not trouble the workot when the stove was not up there was a frequently blown off with a loud report, frightenthose in the lott; no gas was used, kerosene beme; there were no lamps in the drying room; the water would actile around the stove; when parrels were rolled up stairs pieces of plastering often fell liom the celling.

Joseph Gluckner, who is about sixteen years of age, states that he worked on the second loft of Groenfactory, and at the time of the accident was ose by the front window hoisting sugar; he heard a m; he saw the front wall fall cut on the horses and wagon below; was not knocked down himself or shaken by the shock; he saw everybody on his floor run for their lives; in looking around to see how he could get out saw ure break out about the centre of the floor; it went through the starch room like a dash of powder, and then all became dark; he witness finally jamped down through the hatchway, falling on some burning wood, and hurthimself, so that he was unable to rise, but, rolling over toward the addewalk, he was picked up; there was us hole in the bolier flue, but on the floor where he worked—the second lot—there would cometimes be a noise in the flue and a lot of smoke would shoot out through the cracks of the bricks; Guekner used to work on the first lot, and he remembers that on one occasion a few months ago a sheet of flaine came out of the cracks of the chimney and shot clear out to the middle of the floor where Otto Meis and he were working, and they both ran away terribly frightened; sluckner never told anybody of the; Meib and he were the only ones working on the floor at that time.

The brycetty FLC.

Otto Meib, also a young man, states flust he was at work on the first loft, with his back to the window hearest College place, when he heard a great noise, and being knocked down, a lot of wood fell on him which held him last; while lying under the wood be saw a flash of fire at the rear of the building, which fish was gone in an instant; he managed to got up in a short time and made his way down stairs, the railings of which were broken away; he went out through her him known he was burned; had often seen smoke burst out of the bother flue on his floor; it came out of the cracks; a few months ago, while working on the first lot; with Joseph Gluckner, a sheet of flume burst out of the side of he dismusey, coming clear out to the tracks; a few months ago, while working on the first lot with Joseph Gluckner, a sheet of firm burst out of the side of he dismusey, coming clear out to the table where they were working in the middle of the room; both ran and waron below; was not knocked down himself or

George Schoenwald states that he was at work with Adams and Hauser; he heard no explosion; saw no dash of fire; was knocked down twice; heard Adams
calling for him and Hauser to come to the windows;
all crawled out of the side upon the roof of the next
house, which was covered with bricks and rubbish;
he saw no fire white in the building; the steam pipe
to one of the kettles on his floor leaked all day;
thoughtit stuck together with the water and sugar,
whice burst it; the fue from the boiler went up
through his floor; the stove pipe was many times blown out of the chimney with a loud report; though to was dangerous, and used to talk about it; had worked for Greenfied for three years.

WHEREABOUTS OF THE NEWLY MARRIED COUPLI STILL UNKNOWN-MENTAL CONDITION OF THE GROOM - THE MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE.

The marriage and sudden disappearance of Mr.
Lord and Mrs. Hicks continues to excite of the greatest curiosity in all circles of society. The whereabouts of the newly married couple is still unknown. Their appearance is anxiously awaited, in the hope that a full explanation will be made of the sought refuge from his relatives by concealing himdetermine. The front of the house remains closed, with almost hermetical tightness, and last evening to window showed a ray of light save those in the base-ment. A reporter of the HERALD called there last night and rang the bell. In a moment a young colored man made his appearance. in reply to a question as to whether Mrs. Lord was at nome, he said. "No."

" "is she expected home soon?"
"Woli, yes, sir; we did expect her home this week, but I guess she won't get back fo-night." "Did she leave no word as to where she was going and when she would return?" "None whatever. We haven't no idea where she :s, and can't say when we'll see her again." Later in the night the lights in the basement were lowered, and a pull at the bell fatled to arouse the ta-A reporter also called twice at Mr. Lord's residence in West Seventeenth street. A gentleman opened the door the first time and said that Mr. Lord had not returned, but had been expected inroughout the day and week. No news of him had been received. At the second call a maintervant came to the door. Mr. Lord was still absent, and the girl, not knowing, codid say nothing of his whereabouts or the probability of his return at an early day.

In conversation with a Herande reporter, Mr. Moses Taylor remarked, yesterday afternoon, that Mr. Lord had a bank account with him; but, beyond that, he knew thite of him. He was by to means intunate with him, and was not in the habit of theeting him socially. He had noticed of late the old gentleman's increasing feebleness; but saw no diminution or his mental power. Occasionally he had remonstrated with him about his habit of riding down town in an omnous, and getting out in the middle of the crowded street. He advised him, he said, to use nothing but a carriage, or he would some day meet with an secident.

Ex.Judge Enoch L. Fancher, who, with Dr. George A. Peters and James D. Pish, President of the Marine Bank, has been appointed by Judge Van Brunt to sit at commissioners in the examination into Mr. Lord's mental condition, said last night that he was not acquainted with the missing gentleman in any way. He knows him only by sight, having seen him occasionally at church. Judge Fancher tities that no further legal steps with be taken in the case before next Saturday. This will afford time to serve the writ us limited inquirende upon Mr. Lord, or, in the event of his continuous absence, to give bottce by publication. This examination will proceed whether he makes his appearance or not. The regular day of sitting of the Sherill's jury watch will fire the makes his appearance or not. The regular day of sitting of the Sherill's jury watch will riv the case is on Monday; but, as the proceedings will be of such interest as to draw many spectators, a large court room will have to be secured. The law arm of Lord, Day & Lord, which will prosecute the case for Mr. Lord's sons, are not personally related to their clients.

A gentleman who is acquainted with both parties in his singular case said last evening that he believed Mr. Lord to be in full possession of his mental faculties. Though feeble in health bis mind is a clear as a leading lady of socie

OBITUARY.

GENERAL DE LA MARMORA, STALIAN ARMY.

A cable despatch from Florence, Italy, announce the death of General de la Marmora, of the Itali army, after a long illness. Allonso Ferrero, Marque de la Marmora, the most conspicuous Italian six Cavour, was born November 17, 1804, in the provin of Piedmont, his family being a branch of the Acc juoli, of Florence. He was reared in the Academ Militare of Turin and entered the army of King Carl Alberto as licutenant of cavalry. At the disastrous battle of Novara in 1849, which forced the abdication of that sovereign and crushed to the ground Italian aspirations, La Marmora acquired the reputation that be has since steadily borne-that of a brave and stubborn, but incompetent fighter. Notwithstanding this incompetency, so unmistakably displayed, he was enabled not only to retain his position in the army under the succeeding and present kfug, but to rise, by dint of unequalled courage and energy, to the years. Cavour knew well his detects, yet Cavour could do no better than to lift him up into chief commake - him the armed representative of the "Italian make-him the armed representative of the "Italian question" in the face of Europe. A cordingly he was sent in 1855 with 15,000 troops to the Crimea, where he was enabled to ventilate the cross of Savoy on the plans of Tchernaja, though inflicting very little damage upon the Russians. In the campaign of 1859 he was reduced to the status of an automaton, nominally commanding one wing of the aliced army. Marshai Niet and Napoleon III. were too well acquainted with the Italianismine general to allow him any real control over his 60,000 men on such an important neld as that of Solferino. After the peace of Villairance La Marmora reappears prominently in 1856, both as Prime Minister and Generalissimo at the same time. In the beginning of that year he formed the alliance with Prinsia to expel the Austrians from Venetia, and in furinceance to him from Beria for the guidance of the Italian forces, Bismarck being another believer in automaton. Highly indignant at this Bismarckian proceeding—according to his recent revelations—the Italian General assumed the responsibility of entrely disregarding the wise instructions drawn up by Motike and the result of this neglect to follow the Prussian plan was the disaster at Custozz. He blunuered headlong into the very hoart of the Islamous quadritateral and allowed the Austrians to enclose him in their steel trap at leisure, and while the battle of Custozz manifested an improvement in fighting on the part of the Italian solders it only proved once question" in the face of Europe. A cordingly he was piace at the office of Mr. James B. Young, No. 49 Nassau street, about haifpast one on last Wednesday afternoom. It will be remembered that Mr. Young's cierk was informed by a stranger that a lame gentleman wished to see him,
and that while engaged on the street taking to the gentleman the office of Mr. James B.

The stranger that a lame gentleman wished to see him,
and that while engaged on the street taking to the gentleman the office door was forced open by the stranger, who had effected an entrance upperceived, and about $5,000 in money and $90,000 is bonds taken from the unlocked safe and tables in the room,
and that the robber escaped with his bondy.
Since then the detectives have been looking for him and his supposed confederate.

Detictives Friends and O'Connor could not be found up to an early hour this morning. It is supposed they are still on the case. The prisoner franties was brought to the Fourteenth precinct station house and was there locked up for the night. The sergeant could tell nothing but the simple fact of the street.

ARCHDEACON CLERKE.

The venerable Archdeacon Clerke, one of the oldest members of the University of Oxford, died at his residence, Christ Church, on December 24. The venerable and esteemed gentleman had met with a slight accident from a fail at Brighton a few weeks previously, which had caused him to lay up; but no serious apprehensions were felt as to his general health. He prehensions were felt at to his general health. He never, however, recovered from the shock to his system. Archdeacon Cierke was graduated at Christ Church in 1818, and became a student of that society, was appointed Archdeacon of Oxford, to which is attached a canonry of Christ Church, in 1830, and rector of Milson, Oxon, 18 1836. He was, at the time of his death, Subdean of Christ Church and chaplein to the Bishop of Oxford. Archdeacon Clerke was highly respected throughout the university, city and diocese of Oxford. He was in his eightieth year.

Mrs. Sarah Welles, of Athens, Pa., who died in that town on December 29, was the daughter of Colonel . August, 1794, her father having emigrated from New England. Her family was called upon, in common with other settlers of that time, to endure the trials of the terrible Wyoming massacre of 1778, and three of her uncles fell in that struggle. She was married in 1812 to General Henry Welles, of Athens, Pa. A last reception in honor of her eightieth birthday was attended by a large gathering of friends and relatives. Mrs. Welles was the last aurvivor of fourteen children, and was a faithful memoer of the Presbyterian Churen at Athens from her marriage until her death, at the ripe age of eighty-three.

Eli Thibadeau died yesterday at Portney, Ont.

Mary Darling, aged sixty nine, residing at No. 904 Eighth avenue, died suddenly in the Church of the Paulist Fathers, in Fifty-ninth street, between Ninth and Tonth avenues, last night, of heart disease.

DEATH IN A CHURCH.

FUNERAL OF OFFICER THOMPSON.

The funeral of John Tnompson, of the Brooklyn mounted police squad, took place yesterday after-noon, from his late residence, No. 455 Fifth avenue A large police escort, under command of Captain Campbell, of the Tenth precinct, assisted at the obse quies. The services were conducted at the house by Rev. N. D. Gulick, pasior of the Iwelfth Street Re-formed Church. The remains were interred in the Evergreen Cemetery.

TERRIBLE DESTITUTION.

A young woman, whose clothing was ragged, calling serself Mary Powers, applied to Judge Davis, in Jersey to prevent her from starving. She carried in her arms a babe of only a few mouths old, and said that such and not tasted a morsel of food for several days. Her husband left her some months ago and went to Ireland. The Judge committed her for sixty days. Catharine Hanley told the same story later in the day, and the Judge committed her also.
